CLERGYMEN OF THE DIOCESE

With the Laymen They Consider Affairs of the Episcopal Church in Indiana.

A Satisfactory Condition of General and Missionary Work-Papers and Discussions in the Baptist Sunday-School Convention.

THE DIOCESAN CONVENTION. Gratifying Reports of the Services Performed by Laymen. The diocesan convention at Christ Church was continued yesterday. In the morning the session was chiefly given over to matters of a business nature, in the course of which the following officers were elected: Treasurer.—Lewis B. Martin, Terre Haute. Li-brarian.—Miss Emily L. Upfold, Indianapolis. Stand-ing committee.—Rev. Dr. Pettis, Lafayette; Edwin G. Hunter, Indianapolis, and Rev. J. J. Faude, Mich-igan City; Messrs. William Mack, Terre Haute; David E. Snyder and R. R. Parker.

Board of Missions—Revs. Dr. Jenckes and W. D. Engle, of Indianapolis; J. D. Stanley, Terre Haute; Dr. Kemp, Plymouth, and Messrs. Edward Olcott, Muncie; N. F. Dalton, Vincennes: George W. Cobb and W. A. Van Buren, Indianapolis.

Trustees of Diocese—Messrs. Isaac L. Beach, Lafayette; Edward Olcott, Muncie; Lewis B. Martin, Terre Haute; Charles A. Sudlow and Aquilla R. Jones,

The annual report of the trustees of the diocese showed that there was a balance in the treasury of $17,500, and that the receipts from missions were $3,629, there being a cash balance in all the funds. Delinquences were remitted against the following churches: Trinity Church, at Logansport, and Trinity Church, Bloomington; St. John's, Lagrange; St. Philips, North Liberty; St. Mary's, Delphi, and St. Paul's, Evansville.

The delegates took lunch at noon in the chapel of the church, where an especial dinner had been prepared for them.

In the afternoon the report of the committee on lay work was read. It showed that until recently the interest in the church by men had been chiefly confined to payment of pew rent and attendance on church service, the ten-dency being to regard the service of God as effeminate. But a better day is dawning, the licensing of lay preachers has done much and ought to be utilized more still. The only organization for laymen's work which has been generally adopted throughout the American church is the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, organized in 1883 by a dozen young men of St. James Church, Chicago, who agreed to pray daily for the spread of Christ's kingdom among young men, and to try and bring each week at least one young man within hearing of the gospel of Jesus Christ. There are now 200 chapters of this brotherhood, with a membership of 4,000, extending from Maine to Washington Territory, and from Minnesota to Florida. The method of service is simple-visiting committees, hospitality committees, young men's clubs, receptions. Bible classes, and special services being the means employed. A special report was given concerning the "Lay Helper's Association of England"-which is in its twentyruorth year and has 5,000 male communicants, with the bishop of London at its head. The association has proved valuable in the task of evangelizing the masses of London. Similar organizations are now in successful existence throughout England. In 1884 the first step towards transplanting the lay-helpers movement was taken in the Diocess of Long Island -when nine gentlemen were admitted as layreaders. The growth from the beginning has been steady and substantial. The report then goes on to urge more effective work by laymen and suggested the appointment of com-mitteemen on "lay work to serve as organizers and take in hand arrangements necessary to its auccessful prosecution."

The following resolutions were submitted:

Resolved, That the development of lay work in this diocese be intrusted to a body to be known as "The Commission on Lay-work," to consist of the bishop of the diocese and one layman from each par-ish and mission, said laymen to be nominated by the rector or priest in charge Resolved. That in the judgment of this convention the commissioners of each deanery should have at least one meeting annually in connection with a convocation of this deanery, and that a meeting of all the commissioners should be held at the time of the annual diocesan convention.

Resolved, That the bishop of the diocese is hereby requested to arrange for the several parishes and missions a series of services for men, with addresses on the subject of "lay-work."

The committee appointed at the last convention to take into consideration the subject of Sunday-school instruction also made its report. After discussing the question in all its phases the committee submitted the following resolu-

Resolved, 1. That the rector or minister in charge of each parish or mission be superintendent of the Sunday-school and the system of instruction.

2. That we recognize the great importance of constituting the word of God, the church Catechism and the Prayer-book the basis of Sunday-school instruc-

That the rector or minister in charge of each parish or mission station be asked to conduct normal classes for Sunday-school teachers, looking to the better qualification of them for their duties, and that the course of instruction include such subjects as Christian evidence, church history, liturgies and sys-

Dr. Bradley, of St. Luke's, Brooklyn; Rev. Herbert Cook, of Christ's Church, Dayton, O.; Rev. William Wilson, of Florida; Rev. Dr. J. E. Gilbert, of this city, were introduced and made brief speeches. The meeting of the diocesan convention next year will be held in Grace Church.

In the evening the missionary session of the convention was held. After devotional exercises by the Bishop, the Rev. Lewis F. Coal, of the Southern Convocation submitted the report of the board of missions in which it was shown that the offerings for diocesan missions for the past year amounted to $1,908.13; to the church-building fund, $957.99, and that the work in detail throughout the State was most encouraging. The status of the church was given at Mishawaka, Garrett, Auburn, Angola, Marion. Hunt-Walkerton, Rochester, Fort Wayne, Delphi, Frankfort, Attica, New Castle, Knightstown, Brightwood, Willow Branch, Anderson, Crawfordsville-in fact in all parts of the State-both in new churches that have very recently been established and in the oldest congregations. "The prospects," the report says, "are full of promise to faithful labor. Nearly seventy-five mission stations besides the regular parishes have been cared for, visited or opened in the past year. Our grand difficulty has been we have been fighting in detachments-we need more concentration. Three or four general missionaries placed at the discretion of the Bishop, backed by the deans and clergy of each convocation, will prove a valuable auxiliary in

The Rev. C. N. Spalding, rector of the Howe Grammar School at Lima, spoke of the church as an organization for the conquest of the world, and upon the church in Indiana, he said, rests the conquest of Indiana for Christ and His church. The means to accomplish this work among two millions of people are 36 clergy-men, 5,000 communicants and $2,900 contributed during the last year for diocesan missions. But there is prayer, and, also, the help of many efficient lay-workers and the development of the virtue of Christian giving. He then spoke of a higher conception of the church and her mission. The church is Christ's body, the kingdom in which alone there is promise of eternal sa vation. The question for Christian ministers should be shall we enter therein, leading others, not merely by preaching the gospel but by doing Christ's will, for humanity's relief in hospitals, infirmaries and orphanages? The Rev. W. N. Heermans, rector of Christ Church, Madison, made a practical and effective address on the profits that accrue from the investment of means in the missionary works, and the need of the proper sustaining of the mission-aries, who are the picket guards of the army of God. The Rev. J. D. Stanley, rector of St. Stephen's Church, Terre Haute, discussed briefly the causes of the slight decrease in the con-tributions for missions in the diocese during the work must be undertaken and accomplished. The convention then adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

IN THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL FIELD.

The Topics and Business Considered by the Beptist State Union. The Baptist State Sunday-school Union held tablished in May, 1887, at which time an execusive committee was appointed, who effected permanent organization and appointed officers. About fifty delegates were present at yesterday's About fifty delegates were present at yesterday's session. Owing to the absence of the president, W. H. Perkins, of this city, the meeting was presided over by J. K. Howard, of Livonia, one of the vice-presidents. C. C. French, of Brookston, acted as secretary. The morning session was consumed in devotional exercises and the hearing of reports. That of the corresponding secretary was heard and adopted. The question of whether to publish the proceedings of the conventon in pamphlet form was discussed at considerable length, and afterward passed, and about $30 pledged in a short time from those present. On motion of Rev. E. B. Barry the executive committee was made the publishing committee. One of the most important things considered during the day was the selection of "Chautauqua grounds," in this State, for the use of the union. The discussion was wholly favorable to the idea, and a committee consisting of W. T. Stanton, W. H. Perkins and C. P. Jacobs was appointed to investigate the matter. The following committees were appointed by the chair: On Enrollment-M. Harper and G. W. Burton. On Nominations-Rev. R. E. Neighbors, D.J. Huston and J. T. Green. On Constitution-J. J. W. Billingsley, L. Kirtley and S. H. Huffman. In the afternoon the union was addressed by Rev. Dr. Gilbert on the subject of the Interna-tional Sanday-school Union. Rev. Charles Rhodes, of Ohio, also made an address on the subject of teachers' meetings. The remainder of the time was consumed in an interesting general discussion upon the subject of "The Needs of the Home." Among those who participated were Dr. Stott, Dr. Gilbert, Dr. Hendrickson, Rev. J. Heritage, Rev. Dr. Skillman, Rev. Neighbors and Rev. E. B. Barry. The discussion developed the opinion that better trained Sunday-school

WESTERN ASSOCIATION OF WRITERS.

Preparatory to the Annual Meeting, Social and Literary Exercises Occur.

The Western Association of Writers began its sunual meeting last night, at Plymouth Church. The organization, which is starting upon its numerous company of entertaining writers who have made Indiana's name so prominent in the recent literature of this country, as well as a number of those from adjoining States, including Dr. J. N. Matthews and Miss Jennie Judson, of Illinois; Prof. Venable and Miss Mamie S Paden, of Cincinnati, and a number of others.

Of the gentlemen present last night, there were James Whitcomb Riley, whose popularity within the association is as great as it is without, and Dr. James N. Matthews, who writes purely for the love of it. There was also Wm. P. Pfrimmer; of Kentland, whose pleasant dialect and other easy-flowing rhymes have attracted the eye of every reader of the Journal. He is a modest, unassuming man, apparently about thirty-five years, small and stocky of stature. His recitation, last night, was received with great favor. Of the ladies there were, perhaps, thirty, noticeable among them being Mrs. M. Louise Andrews, of this city, and Mrs. Ida H. Harper, of Terre Haute. There also could be seen Mrs. L. May Wheeler, of the Woman's News, and Mrs. D. M. Jordan, of Richmond, and Miss Evaline Stein, of Lafayette, whose poems are familiar to Journal readers. She is one of the youngest members of the association, a tall, graceful young woman, with kind, dark eyes and an expressive face. Mrs. Julia B. Nelson, of Wing. Minn., well known as a writer lecturer upon temperance and woman suffrage, was present, and complied with an invitation to speak. There were quite a number of others who were not called upon at last night's entertainment, but will be heard from to-day and to-morrow.

The exercises last night, indeed, were social rather than literary. The company assembled in the parlors of the church, and after an hour or so spent in conversation, Dr. J. N. Matthews called them to order, and a number of readings and recitations were given. Mr. Pfrimmer was first called upon and gave "Pap's Come Back to Indiana," a highly creditable dialect sketch. Prof. Bass was asked to give a recitation. He avowed that he never committed anything to memory for the purpose of reproducing it. He said, however, that anything humorous made a strong impression upon him, and he would try, therefor, to reproduce Bill Nye's description of his experience with the red cow, which he did to the great delight of those present. "A man that makes me laugh," said Professor Grant, in referring to the work of humorists, "gets a warm place in my heart." of humoriste, "gets a warm place in my heart."
Miss Evaline Stein was next called upon. She gave a very short selection, "The Hillside Pasture," which appeared in the Journal a few weeks ago. It was greeted with warm applause. Miss Stein will be heard from again before the meeting closes—probably at to-night's public entertainment. Dr. Matthews yielded to a general demand for something from Illinois and gave
"My Good Right Hand," a well-known piece, which was, nevertheless, highly entertaining. Mrs.
D.IM. Jordan then recited her poem. "A Vain D.M. Jordan then recited her poem, "A Vain Quest," which appeared in the May Scribner. James Whitcomb Riley gave "Knee Deep in June," and created the usual enthusiasm. Mrs. Julia B. Nelson brought the literary entertainment to a close with a German dialect sketch, which had a woman suffrage moral.

The session of the association will properly begin to-day. There will be a business meeting from 9 to 10 o'clock, after which the address of President Maurice Thompson will be given. After dinner there will be a discussion on the subject, "Dialect-Its Place in Literature," led by Dr. H. W. Taylor, of Terre Haute, and Lee O. Harris, of Greenfield, from 2 to 3 o'clock. Following that there will be a number of short contributions by Colonel John A. Wilstach, of Lafayette; Mrs. Julia C. Aldrich, Judge C. F. McNutt, Dr. E. S. Crosier, Mrs. D. M. Jordan, Wm. D. Gallagher and others.

To-night a public entertainment will be given at which a small admission fee will be charged In addition to the literary exercises there will be music under the direction of Mrs. Rosamond Patty Bailey. Among those who will give contributions are James Whitcomb Riley, Richard Lew Davison, Prof. John Clark Ridpath, Prof. John M. Coulter, Hon. Maurice Thompson, Hon. W. D. Foulke, Dr. James N. Matthews, Margaret Holmas Bates, A. H. Harryman and others.

The End of a Veteran.

John Thomas, an old soldier living at Joliet, came to the city, yesterday, and drew his pension. He started home, going on the train to Broad Ripple. Getting off there he walked up the road a short distance, got over in a neighboring field and lay down. He was found later in the day, at that place, dead. It is not known what was the cause of his death, whether it was from something like heart disease or was a case of suicide. He had been drinking during the day, and was somewhat under the influence of whisky at the time he got off the train. He had $24.50 in his pocket when found. An inquest will be held at Kregelo's this morning.

Marriage Licenses. Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to John M. Navin, jr., and Lida A. Hollenbeck, Frank Johnson and Maggie Fisher, William Schmidt and Pauline Schafer, Jeremiah Shea and Bridget Sullivan, Wesley T. Morrell and Laura A. Sunderland, Thomas L. Burks and Laura A. Hatton, Harrison D. Power and Mattie Hays, Lee Wolf and Mary E. Labarne, James Colman Tebbetts and L. Alderey Carna-han, Charles N. Wilson and Ida May Brusac.

Our Isanc Has No Mourners.

Nebraska State Journal. It is the misfor une of Governor Gray of Indiana that there are no mourners at his expected funeral. He is recognized as the sort of politician who has climbed up on the bodies of his political friends who have fallen beneath his scalping knife, and the sudden shock to his boom when the name of Thurman, the lifelong friend of his victim McDonald, was pronounced, is generally recognized as a man-ifestation of justice. Thurman had his Gray in Ohio in the shape of the McLeans and the Payne family and they are to be laid out in good shape as companion pieces to the Gray bric-a-brac that will adorn the wigwam of Mc-Donald if Thurman is nominated.

Miss Josephine Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. . Gardner, was quietly married yaster-day morning, at 10 o'clock, at the family resi-dence, No. 91 West Vermont street, to Mr. Harry C. Martin, a lumber and grain merchant of Attica. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. J. Gautz, of the Central Christian Church, in the presence of the family and a few intimate friends. The parlors were tastefully arranged with flowers. The few warm friends forming a very congenial company made the wedding an exceptionally happy one. The bride wore a traveling dress, of tan-colored Henrietta cloth, with bounet to match. Among the guests were Mr. L. C. Martin, and Mr. Ralph Martin, of Attica, brothers of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sangster, of Farmer City, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Brumbach, of Toledo; Mr. Davis, of La Porte; Mrs. Quincey A. Myers, of Loganport, and Miss McNeil of Danville, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Martin left at noon for Chicago, and will take a trip north before going to Attica to reside.

The display of embroideries made by Miss M A. Williamson, of Lafayette, yesterday at the residence of Mrs. T. P. Haughey, No. 237 North Meridian street, drew out a large number of ladies to view the beautiful work, and those who go to-day will be many more as the exquitite work is talked about. The display includes spreads, searfs, lambrequins, doylies, portieres, curtains, throws, screens and bags, on linen. satin, Evangeline cloth (especially woven for Miss Williamson), chamois skin, bolting cloth and a variety of other materials. One of the handsomest pieces is a table cover of chamois skin embroidered in oriental silks and beads and stained in colors. The latter work is original with Miss Williamson and is very beautiful. She also was the first to use chamois and bolting cloth in fancy-work, about six years ago. A square of bolting cloth has a design in wild-rose forms, stained in colors and outlined in silks and beads, which is one of the most delicate articles shown and it is warranted to wash, a most favorable quality in the mind of the practical housewife. The Evangeline cloth is very heavy and a piece properly embroidered would remain an heirloom in a family for generations. Some of the articles shown are begun and supplied with an envelope with all the necessary materials to finish them. The display, is under the auspices of the Art Association, and well worth a visit, in order to see what an Indiana woman has accomplished in art, as well as for the pleasure which one experiences in beholding work which is seen only in the schools of art and design in large cities.

A very handsome wedding took place last night at the Grand Hotel, in which the con-tracting parties were Miss Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Losbenberg, and Mr. J. C. Among the company were Mr. Wm. Shohl and wife, of Cincinnati, grandparents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumerfield, of Chicago, groom's parents; Mrs. Simon

Mr. J. C. Tebbetts, of Chicago, and Miss L. A. Carnahan, sister of Gen. James R. Carna-han, were married at the home of the latter, last night, by the Rev. Dr. James McLeod. Mrs. Tebbetts was well known in the city. She was for some time connected with the Lafayette schools and is a lady of intelligence and culture. The bride and groom left last night for Michigan, where they will make an extended visit be-fore returning to their home in Chicago.

A WOMAN'S OPINIONS.

Written for the Indianapolis Journal. It is a consummation devoutly to be wished that the writers' convention, which is even now upon us, may conclude its deliberations without woman suffrage. There does not seem to be the slightest prospect of such a calamity. Women hold two out of the five offices within the gift of the convention, and out of the forty literary performances twelve are allotted to the ladies. The women have their "thirds" and ought to be satisfied. The programme has an innocent look, as though no bone of contention lurked therein, and yet there is a vague indefiniteness about some of the titles, and we know not what foe in ambush may spring upon the convention. For instance, the Hon Wm. Dudley Foulke, president of the American Suffrage Association, is to talk about Jonah and and the Whale. This is a large subject and capable of many interpretations. Who knows but that woman suffrage may be concealed within that allegory? In fact this issue is likely to be sprung upon any assemblage without a moment's warning. I attended the Woman's Club in Indianapolis a few days ago. It was a beautiful meeting. Lovely papers were read upon the Northern home, the Southern home, home architecture, science in the home, and what shall we do with our children? and all was peaceful, calm and ladylike until some rash woman almost caused a panic by inquiring "What would be the effect upon the home if woman had the ballot?" She was told by the president in a severe and dignified manner. "We never permit that subject to be discussed." This only illustrates that no matter how often or how hard you sit down upon this question, it bobs up serenely the next time two or three are gathered together. The great woman's council in Washington had scarcely finished its work when the "wom an question" became the center of attraction in the Methodist General Conference, and before the echoes of this contest had died away, behold the delegates from every State in the Union fighting over the same problem in the national Prohibition convention. For a question in which, according to the Indianapolis Sentinel, "nobody has the slightest interest," it seems to attract a large share of public attention. The M. E. General Conference could not have given "the cause" greater assistance than by refusing a seat to the women delegates. If they had been admitted without controversy the affair would not have created a ripple; men would have said, "You see women can have whatever thay ask for, when they want the ballot they can have it," and women would have plodded on in their usual apathetic, indifferent manner, not knowing whether justice or injustice was meted out to them. But the General Conference, instigated and sustained by its bishops, constituted itself into a sort of modern St. Paul to snub the sisters; though St. Paul never attempted to fight the women of the nineteenth century backed by the newspapers. If he had, his epistles would have been shorter and there would have been fewer of them. If the General Conference had admitted these five women delegates without opposition, their number would probably not have been greatly increased at the next conference, but now the question will be discussed in every cross-roads firmative, as it undoubtedly will be, the conferences all over the country will be moved to send women delegates to show their faith. Poor old Dr. Buckley will wail louder than ever, "Whenever a woman is put in a legislative body a man must be put out."

Following close upon the action of this conference, the resolution of the colored Methodist brethren, at Indianapolis, comes like a farce at the end of a play: "Resolved, that the bishops be instructed to refrain from ordaining women as deacons or elders," as this was held to be contrary to the teachings of the Scriptures, the same Scriptures that for 200 years were quoted as authorizing slavery. These are the same negroes who owe their freedom in a great measure to the efforts of women. The women are yet living who sacrificed time, money, social position, almost life itself that these men might be set free. In the days of abolitionism women were as brave, as devoted, as helpful as the men in assisting the slaves to gain their liberty. And when the war was over it was the noble zealous, courageous women who left home and friends and all that makes life sweet, and went down to educate these ignorant and destitute blacks; and they are to-day ostracised by the white people of their own station and without reward except such as comes from the performance of a supposed duty. And yet there is not anywhere a class of men more opposed to the advancement of women than the colored

It required the highest degree of moral courage for the Prohibitionists to adopt a woman suffrage plank, and they deserve all honor and praise for their bravery. The situation was expressed in a nutshell by those delegates who said, "If we put this plank in our platform we are sure to lose a great many votes and we gain nothing by it." Ay, there's the rub. Women have nothing to offer in return. There is not a single plank in any political platform that is not adopted with the expectation of gaining so many votes thereby, but for this one of woman suffrage there is no chance of a return; indeed, there is the absolute certainty of a loss of votes in consequence. The Journal says in an editorial that "women have just as much influence without the ballot as they would have with it." This being the case then the combined strength of the equal suffrage women, the Prohibition women and the Prohibition men ought to carry the election, but everybody knows this will not be done. It is only votes that count at an election, and it is an utter absurdity that each equal suffrage woman and each Prohibition wom-an can persuade one Republican man or one Democratic man to vote the Prohibition ticket. If, however, each woman was herself a votershe could make a considerable difference in the result of the election. But the Journal says, editorially, "What shall it profit a woman if she join the Prohibition party because of its suffrage doctrine, when it is only through the aid of the Republicans that she can ever get a chance to vote? This should have been put under the head of special news or issued in the form of a bulletin. When does the Republican party proe to give woman this chancel Up to dat they have not so much as hinted such an intention. Let us reason for a moment. First-Women want equal rights; the Prohibition par y has declared itself in favor of equal rights: attendance from this and other cities to witness the ceremony performed by Rabbi Messing, of the Market-street Temple. The bride, a beautiful blonde, wore an elegant dress of white faille francaise, en train, a veil and diamond ornaments, the gift of the groom. She also carried a bouquet of tea roses. The attendants were Miss Gertrude Sumerfield, of Chicage, and M the fault will be found in the premise that woman have any appreciable political influence without the ballot.

One of the saddest incidents connected with the recent Prohibition convention was that of the "prominent delegate who came to the convention in favor of woman suffrage, but while here he saw a fellow-delegate, a married man, miss his dinner while he talked to a pretty young lady and a vivacious widow. He is convinced that when women take part in political conventions it will be necessary for wives to acwives to keep things straight, and henceforth he is against the movement." Alas, twenty million women to be disfranchised because one married man talked to two pretty ladies at the same time and missed his dinner! And what shall it profit a woman if she watch ber husband through one convention and does not keep her eye on him all the rest of the year? IDA A. HARPER.

AFFAIRS OF THE RAILWAYS.

The Express-Railroad Fight.

One of the officials of the United States Express Company feels that their side of the story in the pending litigation has not been properly stated. He says: "There has been no attempt on the part of the United States Express Company to interfere with the running of the trains of the Monon route between Indianapolis and Howland's Junction, so far as the mail, passengers and freight are concerned. The facts of the case are as follows: The United States express, under the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, made a contract with the L. E. & W. Railway Company for the exclusive express privileges of the entire L. E. & W. system, both through and local. The United States Express Company also has a contract with the Monon route to carry its through business between Indianapolis and Chicago. Notwithstanding the fact that this contract is still in life, the Monon has refused to carry the messengers or express matter of the United States Express Company between Indianapolis and Chicago, alleging as a reason that they have made an exclusive contract with the American Express Company. By this action the Monon has arrogantly refused to permit United States express matter passing over this part of the L. E. & W. railway, with which the United States Express Company has an exclusive contract, and it has also attempted to force the American express matter over the L. E. & W. road, with which the American Express Company has no contract whatever. It is not to be wondered at that the United States Express Con seek to protect itself by demanding of the L. E. & W. that they should carry out their contract and prevent the Monon from carrying American express matter over the L. E. & W. road. The milk in the cocoanut indicates very clearly that there is a combination between the Adams Express Company and the American Express Company to prevent the United States Express Company doing any business between Chicago and Indianapolis." The case comes up this morning before Judge Taylor.

Personal and Local Notes. L. L. Fellows has been appointed agent of the Midland line here, to represent the Lake Erie & Western. He took hold yesterday.

The Lake Erie & Western people, who, a few weeks ago, made so bold a dash for the Kansas City travel, are somewhat disfigured, says one of their agents, by the recent changes made in the roads with which the have to compete, but Indications are that the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton people are not disposed to let go their hold of the Dayton, Fort Wayne & Chicago road. The new directory is made up almost wholly of C. H. & D. men, and they have elected Eugene Zimmerman president.

J. J. Collins, a representative of the Central Traffic Association, is spending a few days in the city, instructing the newly appointed men who are to look after the billing, etc., of the roads doing business out of Indianapolis, as to what their duties are to be.

Edward King, ex-treasurer of the Indianapolis & St. Louis road, was buried yesterday afternoon. A number of the veteran railroad men, and those who worked with him on the Bee-line, attended the funeral. The deceased carried an insurance on his life of $55,000.

The receipts from sales of tickets at the outside office of the Louisville, New Albany & Chicano road, at Indianapolis, in the month of May, were $4,624.35 in excess of those of May. 1887. Fifty per cent. of this increase is due to the putting on of the new trains, which both ways have become handsome paying institu-
